IUMI 2020 conference centre now online

9th September 2020

For the fourth time, IUMI is returning to the great maritime city of Stockholm but – for the first time in its history – this conference will be held online. The current challenging global conditions where social distancing and international travel is restricting our normal daily lives have led us to re-format this year's annual IUMI conference. Taking advantage of technology, we are moving the conference online and widening its reach.

Our virtual IUMI 2020 conference centre is now online for registered delegates!

We would have preferred to have welcomed you in person to the magical maritime city of Stockholm. Sadly, that's not possible this year. However, our Swedish hosts are excited to be the first organising team to stage the conference in a revolutionary new format. We sincerely hope that you will embrace the change and support the event. We are confident that you will learn a lot and meet (virtually) a wide range of new friends and colleagues – and all with a Swedish flavour! We look forward to you joining us.
